What is SuperMVNO?

A Mobile Virtual Network Operator (MVNO) is a company that provides mobile phone service but does not have its own frequency allocation of the radio spectrum, nor does it have all of the infrastructure required to provide mobile telephone service. A company that does have frequency allocation(s) and infrastructure is known simply as a Mobile Network Operator (MNO). MVNOs are roughly equivalent to the "switchless resellers" of the traditional landline telephone market. Switchless resellers buy minutes wholesale from the large long distance companies and retail them to their customers.

SuperMVNO is a MVNO given the following enhanced facilities/features:

- unlike the traditional MVNO, SuperMVNO's service for making mobile international telephone calls is not limited to a specific or particular country or geographical territory; it is a multi-country or global service; one SIM that is given roaming support by 550 MNOs in some 200 countries
- SuperMVNO is provided with all the facilities for operational control and management, accounting management and customer relationship management by EcoCarrier, the SuperMVNE, the enabler and service provider for the SuperMVNO operation
- A SuperMVNO needs only be concerned with marketing and selling the managed services for making low-cost mobile international telephone calls.
